

An eternal inspiration for design, nature plays muse to yet another jewellery designer. This time it's Beirut-born Donna Hourani. As evidenced in her newest collection Tropical Rainforest, she captures the rawness in nature through her drop earrings, ultra-thin chokers, rings and bracelets. Inspired by her travels to Argentina and her passion for dance, the designs reveal curvy, fluid forms. Crafted in 18-karat rose, white and yellow gold, the Tropical Rainforest line showcases orchids, jasmines, mushrooms, vines, rosebuds and tendrils. Animals and reptiles wander in abandon through Donna's jewelled rainforest speckled with ethically sourced gems such as sapphires, emeralds and tourmalines, while freshwater pearls feature on the Dew On Tendril, spiral and coil earrings, Dew On Tendril ring and Jasmine choker. A cute jewel that shines bright is a tiny, gem-adorned lizard in black diamonds, pink and blue sapphires. Adding a whimsical touch to the collection is a pair of white gold mushroom motif earrings accented with white diamonds with a yellow gold stem.
